KONA ORPHANAGE IS CLOSED DOWN

were left when they reached their present quarters. Two were left at Kailua with their mother and two went to an uncle in this city. Seven Japanese boys were left at the orphanage to be located in various homes in the Kona district.

Miss Beard was very frank in her talk with the newspapermen this morning and conversed in a most natural manner, though evidently very much worn out by the trying experiences which she has gone through in the last few days. She is apparently a woman of rather nervous character and does not deny for a moment that she believes in healing by prayer, but states that she has held that faith ever since she was sixteen years of age, at the same time being a member of the Christian church. In telling of the trouble and then her decision to give up her mission of charity she said:

"The decision to give up the work at the Kona Orphanage was made very suddenly. Mr. Trent went around among the people there and found out all that he could, then coming back to me. He told me that he felt sure that the matter would be brought before the courts. I was not of that opinion but told him that I felt, just as I had from the first, that I would not fight the matter. Rather than do that I would give it up altogether. I asked him let me have a few hours to think it over. I did this and, as this was Wednesday evening, I came to a decision Wednesday night at 10 o'clock.

"It was a very busy time for us to get ready and down to the Mauna Loa next morning. The children were wakened up and we hurried through, as I did not think it was best to leave the matter till after Mr. Trent had gone.
While he was there I had the benefit of his advice and felt that it was all good.

"We had a very rough trip coming down and the children are all tired out, but they hardly look as if I had starved them. When I decided to give the place up I wanted to get them away from there and from under the influence of drinking and swearing men such as those who had tried in various ways to interfere with my work. That was being done continually and only a couple of days before we left Mr. Over-end had called away some of the boys to chase cows out of his cane fields, promising to pay them, though he knew that I had forbidden them to leave the premises.

"That may seem a very small thing to you but so many of those little things of exactly the same kind were occurring all the time that it caused continual trouble. In regard to the children not having enough to eat, they would be called to, over the fence, and asked if they were hungry. You know how a boy is. They may have had something to eat an hour before but if offered something else which they are not accustomed to they would immediately be hungry. They do not look like starved children, do they?

"Apart from Overend and Scott I do not know of anyone who was against me in Kona. Many of the very best men in the district offered to help me out in every way and I have very many friends there. Scott was against me because I took children from the school that his wife is a teacher in. Some time ago he wrote me a letter asking that I should not take any children from that district as her pay was rated by the number of pupils and that I was hurting him by doing this. That was one reason that I brought all the children down here with me, that they might not remain there to be used to the selfish ends of unprincipled men.

"Mrs. Nuzum, about whom there has been so much talk, will return to the Coast. There have been very unpleasant charges made against her in relation to Dr. Yokum, but she is a pure, good woman, and has considerable means of her own. In regard to Miss Olson and Miss Mullinger, they will come down on the next Mauna Loa and go to the coast. I will furnish them the money needed for their expenses to where they live.

"I started the orphanage as the result of what a doctor told me about ten years ago. He said that I had only a few days to live and that I had better dispose of my property in the way which I desired that it should go. I then incorporated the Orphanage, doing this for the term of fifty years, that the work might be carried on after my death. I put all my own money into it and named as directors K. H. Trent, my brother T. K. Beard, of Modesto, California, who is president, Miss Callis ed if we would agree that such a rate should conform to all the conditions imposed by the Government under the contract.

"This was the proposition. We were asked in the space of an hour and a quarter to make up a special rate, which would be used on a traffic worth over $100,000 under which we must conform to various conditions which would be unusual, and besides that three or more miles of new track would have to be built. You can see what the amount of work was.

"I asked Smith if he was in a position to sign a contract agreeing that in case Mayer got the contract, he would have the rock hauled from Puna by us. He said no. Then I told him that we would be unable to offer him a special rate as it was exactly the proposition that the Government was fighting, the giving of indiscriminate special rates.

"I asked him why he had not come in before and he replied that he had meant to and had been working on the matter for a full month, but had put it off too long. I can assure you, in regard to the tale that they were told to wait till I came home, that there is no truth in the matter. I have asked my father and the other men in the office and no such answer was even given. The only time the matter of the breakwater was ever broached between the two firms was entirely in a conversational way, in a talk between Mr. Metzger and J. J. Belsler, and my return was never even mentioned, nor were figures asked for.

"Plummer, of San Francisco, representing Perry, came into my office at 5 o'clock the day before the bids were opened and asked for a figure. I knew him and explained that we could not make a special figure for him when he could not give us any guarantee of any kind. I know him well, in fact he used to work for me, but he saw the point right away and went away understanding perfectly what I meant.

"We cannot give special rates to Tom, Dick and Harry. If a man will give us a guarantee of so much freight, then we can make him a rate, but it must go on record when the agreement is made and from then on is open to the public. Neither Mayer's man nor Plummer would give us any guarantee whatever, and you can see how ridiculous it was to ask us for a rate which would involve days of work to figure out, at an hour's notice."

In speaking of Captain Otwell today in response to the rumors that it was felt by them that he was favoring Metzger unduly, Messrs. Hoogs and members of their convention to elect delegates to the national convention.

The primaries will be held on the plan of the Republican primaries, nominations being made a week ahead.

The convention will be held in Honolulu, about the middle of May.
There are six delegates and six alternates to be chosen, and among the candidates expected to be before the convention are C. McGonagle, E. M.
Watson, J. J. Egan, R. B. Reedy, F. R.

between Keo, Saint Clara College and a local team met today, and decided on the following wire to Keo University: "Can team come July." Those present at the meeting were Messrs Gleason, Steere, Fernandez, Kong Hoy, Wise and Abe.

S. S. Mauna Loa this morning
